PERFORMANCE COMMENTARY – FOURTH QUARTER 2023

From August 1st to October 27th, the MSCI World Index suffered a 10% correction, led by interest rates worries, geopolitical risks and mediocre third-quarter corporate earnings. November was a different story. Improving inflation data for October and dovish comments from the Federal Reserve spurred on a 9.43% rally in the MSCI World Index. That month was the second strongest November in the Index's history, and bond indices were equally ebullient. The rally continued into December, as investors anticipated a "soft landing" for the economy backed by 2024 rate cuts on cooling inflation. As a result, the MSCI World and ACWI Indices returned 11.53% and 11.15% respectively, while the Polaris Global Value UCITS Fund ("the Fund") outperformed at 12.11% at net asset value for the quarter, with the month of December responsible for all the quarter's outperformance.

Staying the course in the banking sector led to Fund outperformance, as financials contributed over 4% of the total return. Consumer discretionary, industrials and information technology (IT) holdings also added measurably. Smaller absolute gains were noted in defensive sectors, including energy, utilities, consumer staples and health care. Holdings in the U.S., France, United Kingdom, Canada and Germany topped performance, with notable double-digit returns from off-benchmark countries including South Korea, Puerto Rico and China. Single stock holdings in the Netherlands and Italy detracted.

FOURTH QUARTER 2023 PERFORMANCE ANALYSIS

After the "March madness" wrought from Signature and Silicon Valley Bank failures, financials stagnated on default fears through most of 2023. Early in the fourth quarter, U.S. bank stocks (based on the S&P Banks Index) fell to an all-time low compared with the S&P 500 Index, while an index of regional bank stocks lost almost a quarter of its value. By the end of November, financials turned a corner as the Fed shifted its narrative from rate increases to steady rates to possible declines in 2024. Polaris' overweight in financials proved fortuitous, as 13 holdings recorded gains each in excess of 15%. Many of these included U.S. financials like SLM Corp, Capital One Financial Corp., Webster Financial Corp and International Bancshares. Among other contributors were Puerto Rican bank, Popular Inc., which managed to beat street EPS estimates for the third quarter, and German reinsurers, Munich Re and Hannover Re, both of which capitalized on hard market pricing and better returns on their investment portfolios.

The rate-sensitive consumer discretionary sector had a strong showing in the fourth quarter, as consumers spent in the runup to the holidays. More than a half dozen portfolio holdings had double-digit gains, led by U.S.-based Sally Beauty. The beauty supply/hair color company grew its own high-margin brands, offered new products and improved operations efficiency. Kia Corp increased its market share in the U.S. and Korea, with EVs selling well in select locations. British clothing retailer, Next PLC, reported firmer pricing and revised guidance upward through the end of 2023. Sony Corp. offered bullish projections for 2024, highlighting the success of its PlayStation subscriber platform, recovering image sensor business and relaunch of its motion picture division after the Hollywood writers' strike. By quarter end, the sector was buzzing as investors factored in pending rate cuts and resilient labor markets, both of which may spur big-ticket spending (cars, homes, appliances, TVs) in 2024.

Among industrials, U.S.-based defense company General Dynamics cited strong demand in the face of ongoing conflicts in Ukraine-Russia and Israel-Hamas. The company went on to report solid operating and net earnings, with steady revenue growth and significant backlog. China's Weichai Power noted recovery in the heavy-duty truck (HDT) market boosted by exports and returning domestic demand. The jump in Weichai's liquefied natural gas HDT sales year-to-date in the domestic market is notable, as economics begin to favor gas over diesel due to pricing. Kion Group, partially owned by Weichai, reported increased profitability and free cash flow, driven by a momentum in the industrial trucks and services segment.

With the advent of artificial intelligence (AI), the IT industry was dominated by the mega-cap high flyers like Nvidia and Meta. Instead of investing in pricey AI players, we invested in value "derivatives" that serve the AI market behind the scenes. For example: Memory chip maker SK Hynix was up more than 25% for the quarter, noting improvement in DRAM pricing and AI demand for its very advanced high bandwidth memory chips -- for which SK Hynix has almost 100% market share. Samsung Electronics capitalized on the same. Microsoft Corp. advanced on the back of solid results, citing double-digit revenue and operating income. Microsoft's CEO stated: "We are rapidly infusing AI across every layer of the tech stack and for every role and business process to drive productivity gains for our customers." (Read about AI trends in the January 8, 2024 blog post – visit us at www.polariscapital.com)

Marketing and advertising companies have been generally weak as tech companies curtail ad spending. However, communication services companies like Ipsos SA and Publicis Groupe were industry standouts, focusing on generating organic growth, increasing market share and controlling costs. A diversified customer base, less reliant on tech customers, also helped.

Material sector stalwarts, Smurfit Kappa Group and Berry Global Group, were purchased as "backdoor" investments into consumer staples, but at much better valuations. The decision proved fruitful, as the food/beverage packaging companies contributed to materials sector gains this quarter. Smurfit reported stabilizing volumes, as a year-long destocking cycle is nearing an end. Containerboard price increases in the U.S. should boost Americas operations, and further validate Smurfit's proposed purchase of U.S. based WestRock. Berry Global's volume decline was better than expected as was the price-versus-cost recovery equation. Berry's new CEO is targeting productivity improvements as well as prioritizing value over volume, which should lead to better margins.

Nearly 90% of Fund holdings were in absolute positive territory for the quarter; only a small handful of stocks detracted, among them were Yara International, Jazz Pharmaceuticals, Ahold Delhaize, Allison Transmission and NOV Inc. Norwegian fertilizer manufacturer Yara International posted lackluster results, as profitability dropped on reduced margins. Increased delivery volumes and lower raw material costs failed to offset falling fertilizer prices. Irish drug maker, Jazz Pharmaceuticals, had mixed news as its key product, Xywav, faced generics competition; however, Jazz's drug is being extended to treat idiopathic hypsomnia. After a stretch of excellent results, grocer Ahold Delhaize noted moderating growth and margins as consumers tighten their belts due to a longer-than-expected spate of inflation.

Among U.S. stocks, Allison Transmission Holdings declined after missing topline expectations due to weak off-highway demand; the issue is expected to persist for a few more quarters. However, Allison Transmission saw sustained strength in their North America on-highway and service parts end markets, while reaping the rewards of price realization and cost mitigation that boosted gross margins. Weaker energy prices weighed on NOV Inc. sentiment, but the oil/gas equipment supplier's order book remains healthy.

During the quarter, we exited Honda Motor Co. and Taylor Wimpey PLC. Honda was initially purchased when its auto division was under pressure; auto margins recovered in late 2023 on low inventories, minimal incentives, and better volumes as the chip shortage has eased. We determined this was opportune timing to sell at a profit. The culmination of falling inflation, Bank of England rate cuts and pent-up demand should help U.K. homebuilders in 2024. Yet, Taylor Wimpey showed few signs of capitalizing on this trend, with volumes, prices and margins middling. The company also struggled with the housing approval process, with unit sales expected to be down 25% from pre-pandemic levels. We sold Taylor but maintained a position in the industry with Bellway PLC.

Portfolio holding, Novartis AG, spun off its generic pharmaceuticals/biosimilars manufacturer, Sandoz. As a result, the Fund now has ownership of Sandoz shares. A new position was initiated in ENI SpA, the Italian oil and gas company with a diverse geographic footprint. Oil prices dropped to more normalized levels this quarter; we took advantage of this downturn to boost our energy weighting.

2023 YEAR IN REVIEW

2023 will be remembered as a year of several plot lines. The year started with economists calling for a recession; by summer, the consensus shifted to the "higher for longer" (higher inflation and interest rates for longer period) catch phrase; but by November, the temperature changed to cooling inflation, rate cuts and a "soft landing" scenario. Returns were particularly strong across both stocks and bonds in the fourth quarter as a result. The anticipated recession has not materialized; in fact, just the opposite occurred with the S&P 500 Index up 26.29% for the year, leveraging gains from a concentrated group of tech stocks. Tech stocks also lifted the MSCI World and ACWI Indices, which returned 24.42% and 22.81% respectively on the year. The Polaris Global Value UCITS Fund underperformed at 14.87%. Double-digit gains in IT, financials, consumer discretionary, communication services didn't meet the heady gains of the heavily tech dominant benchmark. Absolute detractors were relegated to health care and utilities.

INVESTMENT ENVIRONMENT AND STRATEGY

The single biggest influence on equity markets this past year was the rise in interest rates. The markets whipsawed in the fourth quarter, as the Fed signaled rate cuts in the second half of 2024; we expect an environment of modest rate cuts (Fed Funds target range at 4%-4.25%) by the end of 2024. However, the cuts are not without risk. Substantial wage inflation will pressure service sector inflation, which dominates the economy. Further, based on our dialogue with management teams worldwide, it appears moderating prices have been helped by destocking. As inventory reductions turn to rebuilding, it is possible supply chains will tighten up and prices may start to trend up again.

Regardless of the near-term rate challenges, we suspect that the Fed and other central banks will keep rates at more stabilized levels especially in real, after-inflation terms, departing from the ill-advised period of artificially low rates. More appropriately priced cost of capital has far-reaching implications, and is particularly beneficial for value stocks. The gale force headwind of growth over value stocks for the past decade is shifting and, in the case of international markets, has already changed direction. The U.S., driven by continued euphoria over a handful of mega cap tech stocks, aka the “Magnificent Seven”, is the lone holdout. We expect this will change as well, since the actual growth of cash flows at some of these companies has stagnated around 5%. Such modest growth does not deserve high valuations.

Under the surface there is much more going on, specifically the recent outperformance of large cap companies versus small and midcaps. A combination of factors has driven this dispersion, including risk appetite and the disproportionate impact higher rates had on smaller companies. But herein lies the opportunity for the coming year.

While focused on economic factors in our outlook, we are equally vigilant of current geopolitical risks (U.S. presidential race, ongoing warring factions, trade tensions). Last year at this time, we discussed navigating the polycrisis (the simultaneous occurrence of crises). As 2023 turns to 2024, the world continues to be marred by continuous rolling conflicts. We keep macroeconomic events in sight as we update our Fund portfolio, seeking to enhance the risk/return profile with cash-flow generative companies purchased as excellent values. We expect that such positioning will lead to continued outperformance as we enter 2024.

RISKS

Potential investors should be aware that an investment in a Fund may be exposed to other risks of an exceptional nature from time to time. Investment in the ICAV carries with it a degree of risk. There can be no assurance that a Fund will achieve its investment objective and there is potential for an investor to lose some or all of its investment in a Fund. Different risks may apply to different Funds and/or classes. Prospective investors should review the Prospectus carefully in its entirety and consult with their professional advisors before making an application for Shares.

The Fund is subject to the following risks, without limitation:

Equity Security Risk: the value of a company's equity securities is subject to changes in the company's financial condition and overall market and economic conditions.

FDI and Leverage Risk: FDI may fluctuate in value rapidly and leverage through FDI may cause losses that are greater than the original amount paid for the relevant FDI.

Emerging Markets Risk: emerging market securities may expose the Fund to more social, political, regulatory or currency risks than developed market securities and may be subject to heightened Liquidity Risk.

MLP Risk: MLPs expose the Fund to risks associated with the underlying assets of the MLPs and risks associated with pooled investment vehicles. There is also a risk that an MLP may not be treated as a partnership for U.S. federal income tax purposes, and the purpose of the Fund's investment in MLPs depends largely upon this.

Liquidity Risk: there may be insufficient buyers or sellers to allow the Fund to buy or sell certain types of securities readily, which may impact the Fund's performance or (in extreme circumstances) an investor's ability to redeem.

Counterparty Risk: a party with whom the Fund contracts for securities may fail to meet its obligations (e.g. fail to settle an FDI) or become bankrupt, which may expose the Fund to a financial loss.

Currency Risk: changes in exchange rates may reduce or increase the value of non-U.S. Dollar denominated assets held by the Fund. There can be no guarantee that currency hedging will be successful in mitigating such effects.

Operational Risk: material losses to the Fund may arise as a result of human error, system and/or process failures, inadequate procedures or controls.

For more information on these and other applicable risks see the sections "Investment Risks and Special Considerations" and "Investment Risks Applicable to each Fund" in the Prospectus.

DISCLOSURES

The Fund is actively managed and not constrained by any benchmark. The Fund invests in securities of foreign issuers, including issuers located in countries with emerging capital markets. Investments in such securities entail certain risks not associated with investments in domestic securities, such as volatility of currency exchange rates, and in some cases, political and economic instability and relatively illiquid markets. Options trading involves risk and is not suitable for all investors.
